For the new season, we worked to keep real-life player movements like running and jumping in tact and even more natural as you take control of players. We also enhanced animations, player controls and dribbling with the HyperMotion technology. We've introduced new stutter-cam angles that offer you more feedback into the environment, and have also expanded the presence of crowd surfaces that react realistically and dynamically to the football match in motion. Take a look at FIFA 22's free Open Beta now and enjoy! Thank you, The Team at EA SPORTS Three Player Types As your favourite team grows, there are more tactical situations you'll be required to handle. The new gameplay systems of FIFA 22 have made it easier for you to interact with all three of these player types. We will detail the third-player-type system shortly. You'll both have a better understanding of what's happening in the game and where you'll need to be on the pitch. Close-Interaction AI Let's face it - as a football player, you're always aware of your mate. If they start to wander away from you, you're going to know about it. Also, if they're about to commit a foul on you, you're going to want to see how you can react and stop it. The AI in FIFA 22 has been enhanced to react better to you as you move into and around the pitch. So if you're being closely followed, the AI knows that you're about to close down in on him and will therefore start to
