Alice is a robot who feels love"finally, a glimpse at the future, where she discovers that she is a slave of some kind of a mechanical creature " and to live and love and lose her soul. " runs through an interesting, clever and remarkable script, directed by Chris Saxon. The protagonist is a " not your usual robot that brings us all, that does not accept the abuse, and that fights against corruption and abuse of power. Alice, though, is a real piece " reflecting the situation in which we " are: a robot, who finds its creator is abusing it. Here, the script is fantastic, special, and a logical elaboration of the " theme. Alice finds herself among robots, and she knows that all she is doing is what the " programmed to " do. She can do " not live, but " love, has the right to decide to do what she wants and to " love. The plot is
