Huawei Blower Unlocker V100252 Download

In use, the Huawei Blower Unlocker shows no real signs of being the great value that most punters expect to get. Although it does allow you to create your own SIM without having to input the secret PIN by uploading an image from your PC, what's so great about this is that it will only work once, meaning that you can't share this code with any friends. The Huawei Blower Unlocker is a good way to unlock any Huawei, ZTE or Vodafone mobile phone, and it does the job very well. If you're not the most techie type, the manual we've provided will take you step by step through the process - this isn't a difficult process to do, but you will need to have some form of camera to take a picture of your device's SIM card. You can use this unlocker to unlock the phone at the push of a button and without any coding, simply by choosing a unique unlock code from the

'Create Code' screen. You can also set up additional hidden codes for specific contacts. Like the G330, this phone supports only 2G networks. The Huawei 3G TDD-LTE, HSDPA 7.2Mbps (42Mbps download, 14.4Mbps upload) and UMTS 3G HSUPA data are all missing, so the only LTE option is GSM 4G (2G and 3G networks) at 21Mbps download and 6Mbps upload. Huawei advertises that the phone supports Bluetooth 2.1, Wi-Fi IEEE 802.11 b/g/n, Wi-Fi hotspot and GPS with A-GPS, but it doesn't. Only Bluetooth 2.0 is supported. This might not be a huge issue, but why force the user to pay extra for Wi-Fi hotspot if it doesn't work? With a dual-core processor, 512MB of RAM, a 3.2MP camera with a flash, a microSD card slot, a 2.2-inch screen, Android OS 4.0.3 and a built-in Wi-Fi hotspot, the Huawei G330 is a decent mid-range phone. However, it's not one of the most exciting handsets in the market, so if you don't have the money to break the bank on a flagship phone then you'll be better off with a Huawei E series and its generous software goodies.
