The present invention relates generally to the field of integrated circuits and more specifically to integrated circuit packaging. A variety of integrated circuit packages have been introduced to support and house integrated circuits. Some integrated circuit packages are relatively small. As an example, some integrated circuit packages have a footprint less than or equal to 1.27 square inches (or about 29 mm²). As another example, some integrated circuit packages have a footprint smaller than or equal to 2 square inches (or about 57 mm²). However, shrinking integrated circuit packages to smaller footprints has a challenge. For example, a size reduction process for an integrated circuit package is not easily integrated with another process that adds protective encapsulating material. A variety of integrated circuit packages that are relatively large have also been introduced. As an example, some integrated circuit packages have a footprint greater than or equal to about 1.27 square inches (or about 29 mm²). Some integrated circuit packages have a footprint greater than or equal to about 2 square inches (or about 57 mm²). For example, some integrated circuit packages have a footprint greater than or equal to about 2.54 square inches (or about 72 mm²). However, the space inside integrated circuit packages for integrated circuits is limited, and the manufacturing processes to develop and test larger integrated circuit packages are more involved than for small integrated circuit packages. For the reasons stated above, and
